Optional Comments:: It is vital that the people of Hobart make a stand against the building proposals put forward by foreign developers that do not accord with existing low-rise heritage buildings in this city, Hobart boasts some of the finest sandstone buildings remaining in Australia and the heritage aspect of this city must be protected. We need to make a stand against rapacious and opportunistic developments that jeopardise the unique historical and heritage culture that we value in this precious city. If we don't make a stand now, it will be too late once these buildings are completed.

I know we need developers but this city has great historical buildings and unique infrastructure and the view between River and Mountain is one in a million. I would not want to have this interrupted with huge towers of glass and steel. How about we think outside the box and create beautiful architecture for our city which includes reasonable heights that do not create shaded streets and wind tunnels, I think there are enough creative people out there that can help.

Optional Comments:: Hobart is known worldwide as a beautiful city: low rise buildings nestled between the Derwent River and the majesty of Mount Wellington/Kunanyi. Protecting the tree lines adds to the natural dimension of our river city. Already, some buildings are blocking this natural dimension. Already some resident's view lines are that of concrete blocks which hide the river and/or the mountain and hills. Protect the natural dimensions of our city. No highrise ...no chunky concrete tall buildings. Look at the proposed end product situated in the city, from ALL viewlines. There is no requirement to repeat the mistakes of the past. Good developments are respectful of need, heritage, community, and nature. Developers need to focus on what is RIGHT FOR OUR CITY, not on a development that is commonly found in highly polluted megacities that can be 'tweaked' for Hobart.

Optional Comments::	I support the tasteful considerate development of the city. Site lines and degree of loss of sun could also be considerations. Much of Hobart is only 2 stories high. Allot of development could be done by stopping at six stories and having good set / step backs on buildings. Dont support the developers trashing the city to maximise their profits.

Optional Comments:: Any form of planning requires restrictions, standards and policies. Such structure is always subsequently able to be challenged and changed but provides a base/starting point for communities. In Hobart's case we already have seriously challenged health infrastructure surrounding our Royal Hobart Hospital - we already have seriously challenged traffic restrictions (including parking), often around narrow convict-built roads. We need height restrictions to enable proper consideration of associated issues such as these, e.g. service vehicles accessing Battery Point and Salamanca become increasingly difficult as buildings rise and population density increases. Service vehicles include ambulances and fire services of course. Set a maximum building height that seeks to enhance Hobart's buildings and encourage tourists to stay outside of the city.

Inappropriate development between Hobart and the Airport, in the Airport vicinity , at Kingston and all over the CBD are ruining what people come here for. Optional Comments::	The HCC should adopt the recommendations of the Planning Committee as construction of the magnitude proposed by the Fragrance Group is inappropriate. It will change the character & amenity of the area, additionally it will create extensive shadowing & increased wind velocity due to the height & bulk of the buildings. Finally, the Tasmanian aboriginal heritage of the area needs to be fully researched. A few drill holes is not a scientific investigation & should not be accepted as a suitable option by the HCC.

Optional Comments::	Any high rise buildings will further erode what little is left of Hobart's charm, and will in the long run contribute to Hobart no longer being a place worth visiting. It will be just like any other place: noisy, crowded, nightmarish traffic, and no longer a nice place for the locals. Are we really going to be so stupid to allow a few already-rich developers to take away everything we like about our own city? And given the ever-worsening environmental situation, we should be limiting our visitor numbers to something sustainable, not encouraging yet more to come by providing yet more hotel space. NO high rises for Hobart!

Optional Comments::	The importance of Hobart's unique built heritage needs to be recognised and protected. The old colonial buildings are a testament to Hobart's convict history and their cultural and historical value and significance must not be jeopardized by high-rise buildings that are built by developers for profit. Such high-rise buildings will detract from the unique nature of this city. I oppose all high rise development in Hobart.

Optional Comments:: It is vital that the people of Hobart make a stand against the building proposals put forward by foreign developers that do not accord with existing low-rise heritage buildings in this city, Hobart boasts some of the finest sandstone buildings remaining in Australia and the heritage aspect of this city must be protected. We need to make a stand against rapacious and opportunistic developments that jeopardise the unique historical and heritage culture that we value in this precious city. If we don't make a stand now, it will be too late once these buildings are completed.

I know we need developers but this city has great historical buildings and unique infrastructure and the view between River and Mountain is one in a million. I would not want to have this interrupted with huge towers of glass and steel. How about we think outside the box and create beautiful architecture for our city which includes reasonable heights that do not create shaded streets and wind tunnels, I think there are enough creative people out there that can help.

Optional Comments:: Hobart is known worldwide as a beautiful city: low rise buildings nestled between the Derwent River and the majesty of Mount Wellington/Kunanyi. Protecting the tree lines adds to the natural dimension of our river city. Already, some buildings are blocking this natural dimension. Already some resident's view lines are that of concrete blocks which hide the river and/or the mountain and hills. Protect the natural dimensions of our city. No highrise ...no chunky concrete tall buildings. Look at the proposed end product situated in the city, from ALL viewlines. There is no requirement to repeat the mistakes of the past. Good developments are respectful of need, heritage, community, and nature. Developers need to focus on what is RIGHT FOR OUR CITY, not on a development that is commonly found in highly polluted megacities that can be 'tweaked' for Hobart.

Optional Comments:: In older sections of European cities there are no high rise building and this means that the heritage area is maintained and because of this tourists flock to see it. I do not want to see the heritage of Hobart end up looking like all other Australian cities just to keep the developers happy.
