To Whom It May Concern

I have known Mrs Lillia Ambrosino (recently deceased) for the past twenty years since being appointed as Chaplain to the Italian community here in Hobart.

Mrs Ambrosino has been a valued & respected member of this local community in Sandy Bay for many decades and has contributed to the life of this local parish in a generous and giving way.

Like so many of her counterparts she has brought with her to this country a richness of culture and tradition, contributing, if only in a small way, to the multicultural face of our Australian society.

A longtime resident of King St., Sandy Bay, a plaque in memory of Mrs. Ambrosino, would be a fitting recognition of her contribution to this local community.

Yours sincerely,

Rev Fr. Brian Nichols
Parish Priest

To whom it may concern

I, Antonietta Venettacci (daughter of deceased) give my full support for the application of Consiglia Ambrosino.

My mother has lived in this area of Sandy Bay for the past 54 years and her favourite pastime was to walk along the beach on Marieville Esplanade and sit on the park bench where she looked out to the water and found peace and tranquillity. The local community all knew her and loved her because of her kind nature and humble personality. She was an amazing person who always put others before herself and helped everyone in the way that she could for example she would donate her services in the fields of cooking, sewing, knitting and gardening.

She was also a very active and always willing to give her time to the church community in which she belonged. She attended the Holy Spirit Church on Sandy Bay Road every Sunday and was well known and loved within the congregation.

She also volunteered on many occasions to help out with the family restaurant, always giving her time and working hard with the ongoing running of the business where many Sandy Bay locals loved to come and dine because of her delicious cooking.

My mother has always been a huge inspiration. She was hard working, patient, humble, kind, tolerant, always forgiving and understanding. These values are a strong foundation of my life and all those who were fortunate to have known her and be part of her life.

I have no doubt that anyone who had the privilege of knowing my mother, whether it was the community, family or friends would support this application for this gracious, fine and beautiful lady.

Yours faithfully,

Antonietta Venettacci
